DEATH OF RANCHER HELD MURDER PLANE 'CITY OF CHICAGO' NEARS ENDURANCE MARK

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

America and the world is beginning to get an inkling of the real "low down" on some of the famous battles of the World war.

And it just about time, since the war has been over for more than a decade.

Out of the mass of propaganda lies, hatred and blind fury, truth is arising — and pointing with her finger to the mistakes — the heroism — the bravery of the Allied and German troops.

Mistakes were made on the part of the allies during some of the great battles — mistakes that were covered up by falsehoods and blood.

Now they are reaching the limelight.

But, however, we shall never know the truth. In years to come our children will know it. By that time, bitter disputes of politicians of this war generations will be ended and forgotten, and students, cool aloof from any side, will tell the story as it should be told — unprejudiced.

Propaganda is a wonderful thing — it maintained courage for the folks at home during the war.

But, too much propaganda is a Frankenstein monster that will rise and slay its creator.

And a good propagandist is an artist.

Some of the leading minds of the world are now writing their "histories" of the world war.

And there is one word in those histories that is repeated almost in every line.

That word is the big little one, IF—

Some day we shall read the inside history of what happened to Russia during those black days of 1916-1917.

We have been given just hints — of the Russians receiving ammunition and guns from the Japanese that could not be used — of their battles against the Germans in the second Riga drive when their ammunition was exhausted — and they fought back the grey invading host with sticks, stones, pitchforks and clubs.

Yes, perhaps we shall hear about this — and then perhaps we will not.

SKY HARBOR, Chicago, June 28.—Fifty more gallons of gasoline were transferred to the monoplane 'City of Chicago' at 5:15 p. m. today as it passed the 409th hour of sustained flight in an attempt to set a new endurance record.

Near Record
One minute after 5 o'clock, CDT, Sunday morning, if all goes well, the plane will have equalled the present endurance record of 420 hours, 21 minutes and 30 seconds established at St. Louis in July, 1929, by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien. The lodgemen have defeated almost every recognized baseball outfit in this district and are generally recognized as the hardest hitting ball club in Richmond.

Mexico Rebels Arrest Asked

EL PASO, Tex., June 28.—UP—Mayor Gustavo Flores de Juarez said today he had received telegraphic orders from Chihuahua City to arrest Manuel M. Prieto, candidate for governor of Chihuahua state and other members of the Prieto party, who were reported fleeing from the United States.

Antonio Corona, deputy to the Mexican national congress and a supporter of Prieto, arrived suddenly in El Paso today from Chihuahua City. He said Francisco R. Almada had been provisionally recognized by the Mexican central government as state executive, but that Almada had lost the support of the Chihuahua supreme court, and of a majority of the state legislature.

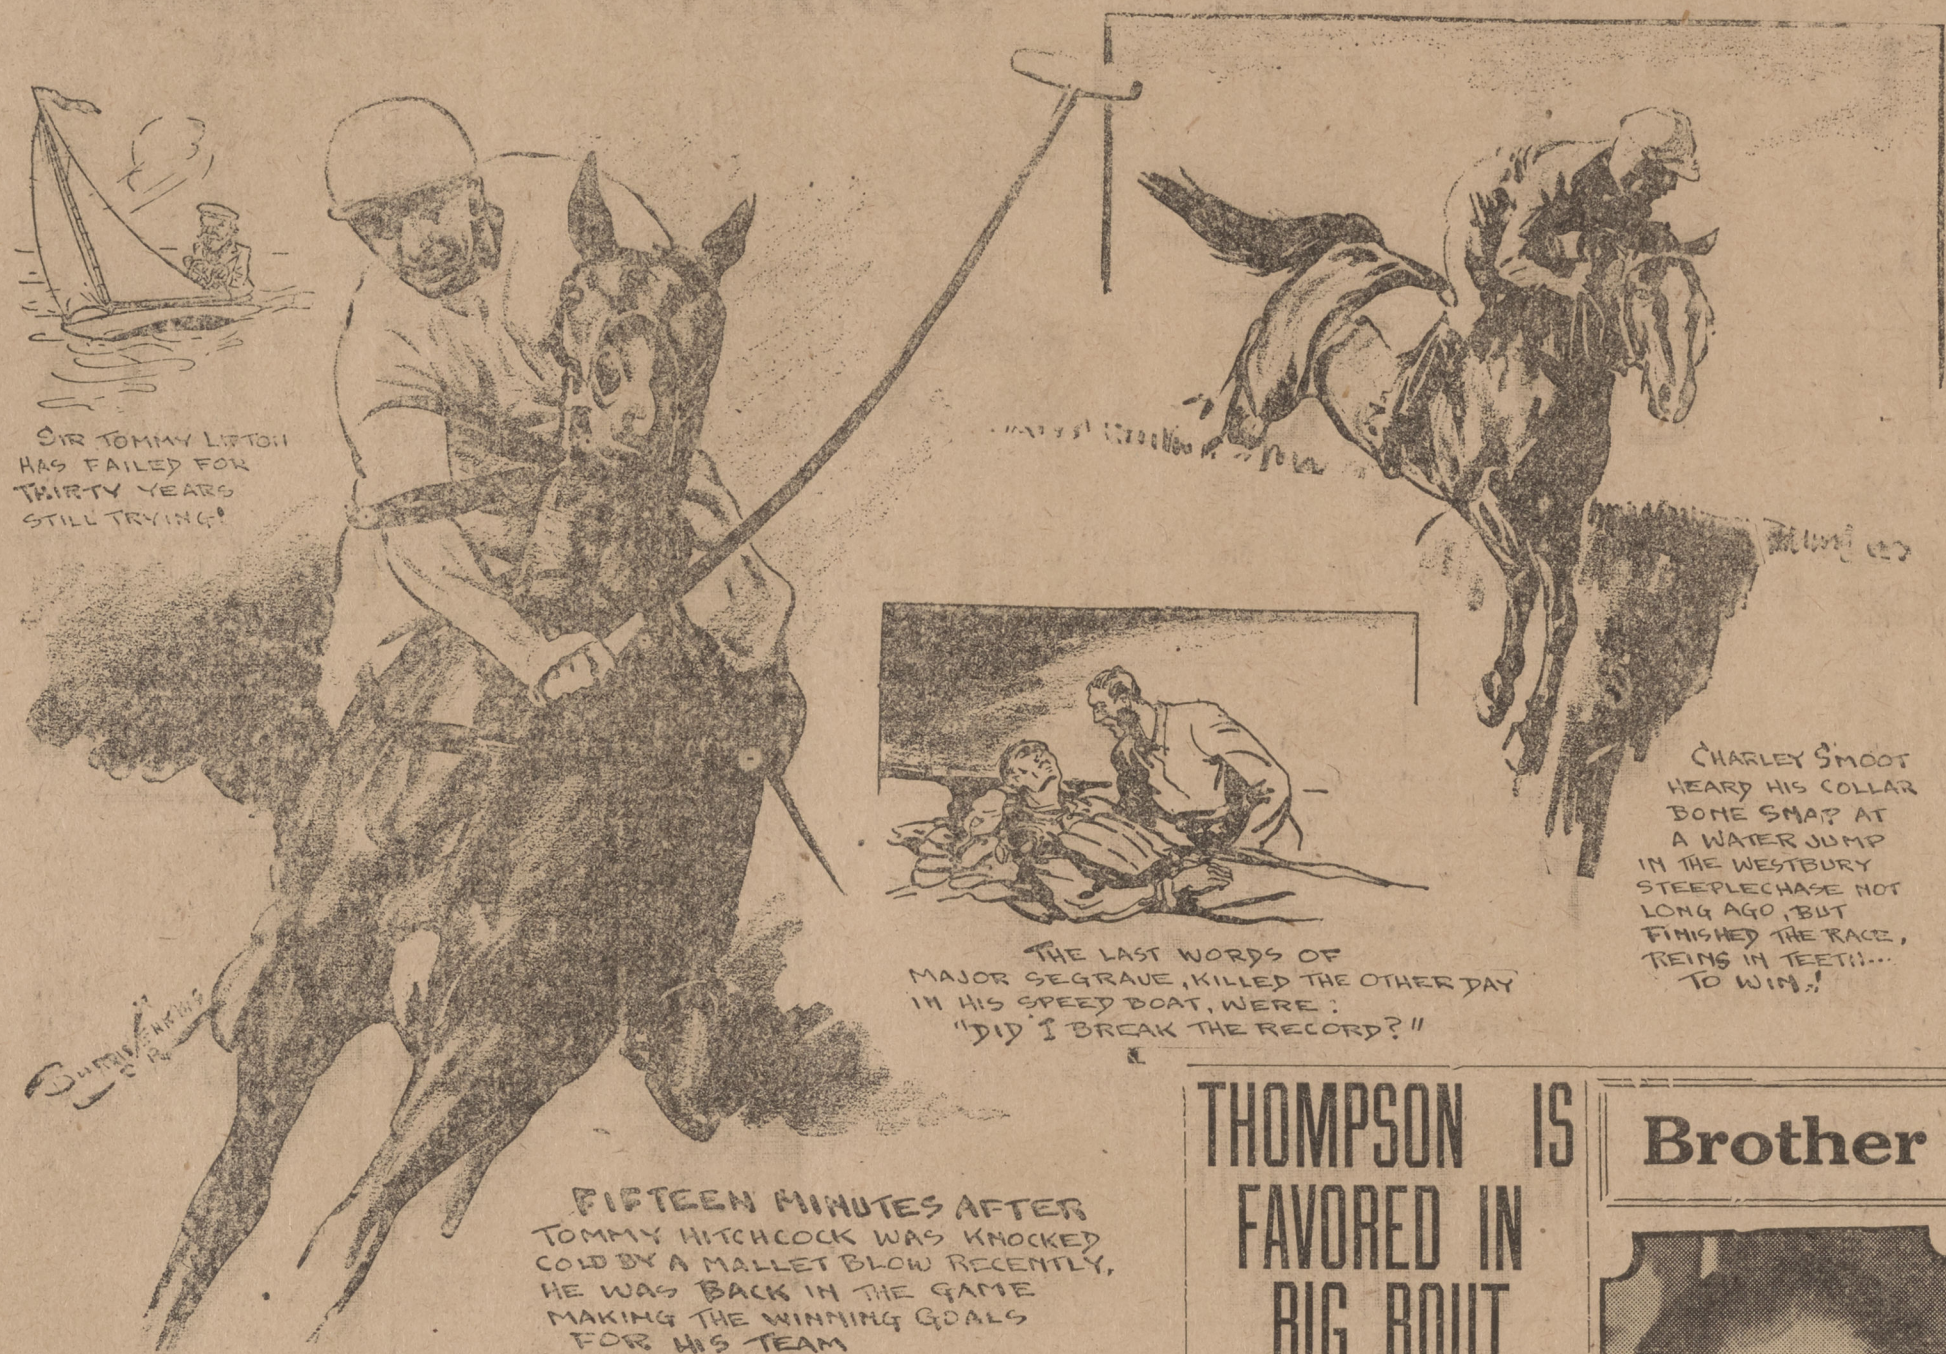

Corona predicted Manuel Jesus Estrada, or a third man would be named governor within three weeks.

Estrada was placed in the governing of the state since Thursday when Almada returned to the state capital from Juarez in an airplane.

Andres Ortiz, candidate of Almada for governor, changed his plans of going from Juarez to Chihuahua City today when he was informed that General Augustin Mora head of the commission investigating the Chihuahua situation for President Ortiz Rubio, plans to come to Juarez in the next few days. Ortiz will await General Mora in Juarez.

TILDEN, COCHET HEADS TENNIS PLAYERS

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 28.—UP—The veterans, Bill Tilden of the United States and Henri Cochet of France, stood tonight at the head of the two quarter final brackets of the Wimbledon men's single championship with the pick of the youthful stars of America and Britain, along with the veteran Jean Borotra, of France, between them and their finals encounter.

Experts have predicted Tilden will close his international tennis career in this year's Wimbledon meet.

Other players in the final are: John Doe, Wilmer Allison, Gregory Mangin and George Loft of the United States and Dr. Coin Gregory of England. Tilden plays Dr. Gregory in the quarter final and is expected to secure an easy victory. Loft will play Borotra and this contest is regarded as a toss-up. If both Tilden and Loft win, experts have said Loft might eliminate Tilden in the semi-final round. The youthful stamina of the Chicagoan has won him favor with the writers here.

Cochet, defending champion, is paired against Allison. The champion is expected to win, but the Austin, Texas boy should give him a battle. The winner of the Cochet-Allison meet will engage the winner of the other quarter final match involving Doe and Mangin.

Tilden is playing better this year than in 1929. He has been conserving his strength and has played no overtime matches. Cochet's play has been diffident and only on one occasion has he displayed the brilliance for which he is noted.

CHINESE NINE WILL MEET ELKS HERE

The Wa Sung Athletic Club of Oakland will oppose the baseball aggregation of the Richmond lodge of Elks this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the First street lot.

The Chinese boys are reputed to possess a baseball style that is hard to beat. They boast recent victories over such teams as the Millvale and Merritt Athletic club nines.

Judging by the record of the Chinese team, the Richmond lodge men will be kept pretty busy at First street this afternoon.

"Dutch" Kogler and Bliss will probably do the chucking for the local Elks this afternoon, with Jensen recieving.

THOMPSON IS FAVORED IN BIG BOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—"Young" Corbett, foremost contender for the welterweight championship of the world, will be the favorite over "Young" Jack Thompson, negro, who is in the 147 pound title-holder, when they square off in the ring at Ewens field here on the Fourth of July.

This fact was determined here today, following a canvass of the sporting gentry. Despite the fact that Thompson has shown all his old-time form in training, Corbett backers are so legion and numerous that no matter how much liability the negro shows he can not hope to be as good as an even money bet against his southpaw opponent.

In their previous bouts, Corbett has won two decisions and fought a draw with the champion.

At that, Thompson's speed and punching has erected a favorable impression among the fans here. He is so much unlike the Thompson who left here after losing several fights to mediocre ringmen a few months ago that he looks like a different person.

Corbett has swung into the very hardest part of his training and the Fresnoan looks in great shape. The Italian lad always manages to keep fit, and any words describing his condition would be superfluous.

The advance sale of tickets is such as to cause the promoters to announce that reservations will be held not later than July 2. This is to give those who have ordered tickets ample time to collect them and also gives the promoters a chance to dispose of them in case of cancellation.

There will be 10,000 one dollar bleacher tickets placed on sale at the park the day of the fight.

LONDON, June 28.—UP—Bobby Jones is returning to the United States without his beloved "Calamity Jane" and the other golf clubs with which he won the British amateur and open championships.

Law Probers To Get Full Funds

WASHINGTON, June 28.—UP—House Republican leaders formulated plans tonight to restore the $250,000 appropriation for President Hoover's law enforcement commission and thus avoid the necessity of volunteer contributions sought by the president to finance the commission.

Leaders decided to make a fight for the full appropriation when the deficiency bill, which now carries $50,000 is brought back before it next week. Their decision followed a vigorous attack on the president's volunteer contribution plan in the house today by wets who declared it was a violation of the law.

ELKS LEAGUE TO START ABOUT JULY 27

The baseball team of the Richmond lodge of Elks will enter into the 1930 Northern California Elks' League competition July 27, according to George Shaw, manager of the local aggregation.

The Richmond lodgemen will clash with the San Francisco nine at Richmond on the opening date of the league. Alameda will tangle with the Oakland nine at Oakland also on July 27.

The league schedule has not yet been officially announced, pending arrangements for the various diamonds on which the games are to be played.

Local Field

At present, but two diamonds have been selected as the sites for the inter-league contests. The first street field will be the local home ground, while the Alamedans will play their home contests at the Alameda Legion park.

The Oakland team will probably play its home games at the Seventh and Harrison street diamond. The Oakland Elks in past years have played on the Coast League park playground, but this stadium will be in use during this year's Elks league.

The San Francisco lodge has never had a home diamond, and has therefore been required to cross the bay each week-end to meet the teams of the eastbay cities. Attempts are being made to obtain a ball park on which they may play home games this year.

Saes To Join

Sacramento and Santa Rosa were believed to have intentions of joining the northern division league, but it is now fairly certain that they will not enter this year's competition.

The southern division of the state Elks baseball competition is also reported to be very active this summer. Nine teams will be in the summer league.

Fred L. Krumb, of Alameda, is state chairman of Elks baseball competition, while Henry Wurthelm of San Francisco, is directing the northern division.

WHAT WILL THE BOYS DO NEXT?

SANDUSKY, Ohio, June 28.—UP—A caravan of cars bearing 50 members of a Sandusky lodge approached the boundaries of Mansfield to see a cordon of police drawn up across the road.

"Well, guess our Mansfield brothers aren't slackers when it comes to receiving fellow members; police escort 'n' everything" one Sanduskyan remarked proudly to a companion as the caravan drew to a halt.

"What you got in those cars?" a police sergeant demanded gruffly of the astonished delegation. "Come on boys, we'll have a look." The sergeant motioned to his men to approach.

"File out of those machines, you, and save the explanations till later."

Fifty angry but stunned Sandusky men descended from their cars, muttering things about the Mansfield hospitality, which were anything but complimentary.

"A-ha" the sergeant said, as sergeants do. "A bottle," and he pulled a bottle of Ohio gin out of the tonneau of a visiting car.

The sergeant ordered: "All right; to the station house with all of you."

Fifty infuriated brothers returned to their machines and proceeded into town, accompanied by their "escort."

Approaching the station, the sergeant suddenly ordered the front car to the curb. From a building opposite streamed a horde of howling lodge brothers, representing the Mansfield "reception" committee.

"Just an old Abyssinian habit" the sergeant bowed as he emptied the "evidence" upon a wilting geranium.

Gary Cooper, recently seen and heard, in the title role of "The Virginian" is doing his gallantiest again today at the Fox California theater in a thrilling play, "Only the Brave." For many a feminine heart the foregoing statement, as brief as it is, will no doubt be sufficient recommendation to this newest offering.

But in case there are any doubters, it must be added that "Only the Brave" shows Cooper to a better advantage, far better, than his previous satisfactory best.

There is something about this tall, manly Montana youth that seems to mark him as the most perfect American type. He is virile and gallant, but yet given to thunderous outbursts of emotion. His quiet courage inspires hero-worship in the hearts of all who behold him and hear him in his masterful work upon the talking screen.

Paramount chose wisely when it selected Gary Cooper in this picture. Their tremendous success as the lovers in "The Virginian" found great favor with film fans everywhere.

"Only the Brave" is an original story by Keene Thompson. It deals with the "crimline" days when Grant and Lee were saying it with cannon and troops. Gary Cooper is a captain of cavalry on the Union side, who, embittered because his sweetheart has killed him, volunteers for spy duty. Accordingly he is sent behind the southern lines with a packet of false despatches. His plan is to be arrested and have the false despatches discovered by the enemy, who will then be misled into a fatal movement of troops.

But he meets Mary Brian, and the plot then becomes a series of adventures in which love and duty fight for eminence. The ending is a happy one.

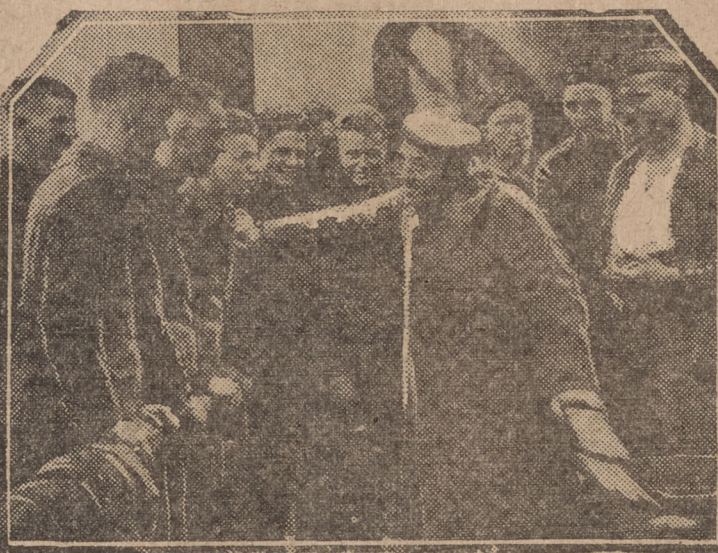

According to a lecturer, a married man is a far more attentive listener than a bachelor. He has to be.—The Humorist.

Only The Brave

GARY COOPER and Mary Brian are starred in "Only the Brave" which is at the Fox California theater.

All's Quiet

SCENE FROM "All's Quiet On The Western Front" which will be shown at the Fox California theater tomorrow.

WOMEN GIVEN RED CROSS PAPERS

Twenty-eight women of Richmond who have successfully passed the examination and fulfilled the attendance requirements in the two courses in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, which have been sponsored by the Richmond Chapter of the Red Cross have been given certificates.

The course was a complete one and covered subjects relating to the home, the community and the individual. First the everyday problems of the home were considered, such as sanitation and care of the kitchen, bathroom and bedroom. On these fundamentals was built up the special subjects of care of babies, children and the aged within the home. Then simple measures in home care of the sick were taught and finally the responsibility of the individual in the home towards the community was brought out in order that the intelligent participation in public health measures might be encouraged in this community.

The following women received certificates:

Mrs. Anna Asmussen, Mrs. Dorothy Bardsley, Mrs. Freida Barrett, Mrs. Margaret D. Bland, Mrs. Cornelia Boardman, Mrs. Alleen B. Brown, Mrs. Kate Campbell, Mrs. Pearl Carter, Mrs. Florence E. Clarke, Mrs. F. L. Crites, Mrs. Nettie Dixon, Mrs. Etha Edlund, Mrs. Irene Gresham, Mrs. Anna Hultberg, Mrs. Beulah Jones, Mrs. Daisy M. Jones, Mrs. Helen Keeley, Mrs. Bertha H. LaMarsh, Mrs. Myrtle A. Marland, Mrs. Mabel E. Mason, Mrs. Bernice McCormick, Mrs. Vivian L. Russell, Mrs. Gertrude Sherman, Miss Lulla Strawnman, Mrs. Bertha Wilhelmata Tate, Mrs. Ellen N. Weston, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Wharton, and Mrs. Grace Williams.

All Quiet On Western Front At Fox Monday

The brilliantly vivid and poignant story of man in war as chronicled in "All Quiet on the Western Front" will show on the Fox-California screen tomorrow.

Without qualification this Universal picture proves its right to be listed among the things not to be missed by those who delight in rare cinema achievements.

Here is the saga of the Unknown Soldier told by one who lived thru the grim reality, the carnage and the horror of the battlefield. It is the story of a boy, who, inflamed by patriotism set aside his school-books and joins with other youngsters in their procession to the front. Enslaving events are awesome, magnificent in scope and scenically sensational.

It is a picture contrived of human candor, fine vulgarity, wrenchingness, good fellowship, horror and magic beauty. It disregards all conventional values of entertainment, contenting itself with presenting the truth, absolute and unchangeable.

The cast for the picture was selected with an eye to types. Portrayals by individual performers are said to be finely etched, outstanding in presentation.

We don't see what Senators could hope to get out of confidential diplomatic papers if they can't solve a dial telephone—Detroit News.

THE WOMAN OF IT

Adult Infantism in the Home

ONE of the kindest words for husbands—as well as one of the wisest words for wives—which we have heard in a long time is the message just given the International Congress on Mental Hygiene by Bertha O. Reynolds, associate director for social work at Smith College.

Don't, says Miss Reynolds, in effect, mother your husband. Married people often quarrel because the woman married to satisfy a maternal instinct.

"The couple has no idea that difficulties arise from this cause," continues the Smith College sociologist. "The woman may have grown up as the eldest of a large family, while her husband is an only child who revolted against a dominating mother. He cannot tolerate the mothering that his wife forces on him. The wife should treat her husband in more comradely fashion."

This bit of good sense is in refreshing contrast to the soporific sentimentality finding expression in the assertion that a husband is "his wife's eldest little boy." All we and Miss Reynolds can say is that, if he is, he shouldn't be! Here is nothing but adult infantism in the home. When such a relationship exists in marriage, the man is mentally undeveloped or psychologically weak-kneed, or both—or the woman is that domestic bane, a back-seat driver with an iron hand in her motoring glove!

We hasten to remark, at this point, that a little mothering now and then, from his wife, will never harm the best of men or the marriage. When he is ill he may want to be nursed and petted. When he is in a moment of nerve-shattering depression caused by one of life's rotten breaks, he may appreciate a shoulder on which to lay an aching head. There are times and moods, for that matter, when a woman feels the same way—then it's up to her husband to do a bit of mothering! Natural tenderness and sympathy function on both sides of a happy marriage.

But the man who hasn't a twelve-year-old mind is justified, we think, in resenting the wife who considers that she must be a mother to him twenty-four hours a day. There is a smug superiority, an affectionate patronage about such an attitude which is intolerable to an adult personality of normal strength. After all—the young wife may do well to reflect—her husband has taken care of himself for a number of years without her protective assistance. He has done his job, spent his money, chosen his clothes and other personal belongings, acquired his habits, made his friends all on his own—and if the net result doesn't seem satisfactory to her, she should never have married him.

Why, for instance, should any wife conceive it to be her duty to select her husband's clothes? Somehow, that seems to us such a humiliating performance on both sides, yet it is one on which many a devoted wife insists. She would buy new suits for her children—then why not for her husband? The answer, of course, is that she is not his mother and shouldn't act like one; that he earned the money which will pay for the clothes, that he is the one to wear them, that he should buy them without feminine interference and dictation, with feminine advice only if he asks for it.

Equality and personal liberty cannot, in our opinion, be given too much play in solving the problems of the marriage relationship. The wife who persistently "mothers" her husband tacitly assumes that he is not her equal, that he is a weaker creature upon whom she must play and protect. Surely, the permanently strong happy useful marriage is that between two who treat each other as lovers and comrades, and reserve the mothering for the children who really need it.

SOMEONE'S WIFE
I do not love him because he is big.
With a fine man's grasp of great things.
O, because he is brave enough
To defend his way
Against danger, ridicule or pity
With a self-sufficient strength.
I love him because he is frightened
Of such a little thing as love,
And afraid
Of such a small peril.
As me.

The Triumph of Feminine Obduracy
Listing the New Jersey primary returns of this plucky son of the commuter vote for which this county is reasonably responsible, we can report that, for once in our life, we voted for a winner—even though, to do it, we had to travel twenty-five miles and back in four and a half hours, and conduct a perfectly legal

THINK IT OVER
By Alfalfa Smith
THERE was a time like the present for women to be helped to their husbands. H—? By remembering that people should never worry about the same thing. It is a good time to study the man you married and find out WHY he lost his job, in case he is out of work, then see where he would fit in. The way to handle men is to ask questions, for men are little boys who never grow up and when you start to boss them they get surly. There is a job for every one and when a man is out of a job he is out of step with the universe and no wonder things go wrong with him! Try a little ENCOURAGEMENT for a change. It usually works wonders. By the way, did you know that very few people starve to death?

CA DISH CA DAY

The problem of what to have for dinner is no problem at all for the housewife who goes to market nowadays and sees an abundant array of fresh, tempting fish. There is something for every taste and every pocketbook. Don't weakfish at 17 cents a pound to the aristocratic brook trout at $1 or $1.25 apiece.

After selecting the fish for dinner, one can hardly ignore the bargains in shrimp and lobster, and the plentiful supply of them, not only to use in cocktails, salads, and casserole dishes for luncheon, but to serve in combination with the dinner fish as well.

Combinations of sea food are much more enticing than plain, baked fish, and after you have once tried halibut, salmon, whitefish or sole baked with an accompaniment of shrimp or lobster, I doubt if you will ever serve them otherwise.

In crude cooking it is red snapper that lends its piquant flavor to other fish in their most delectable dishes, and this is excellent too. Always remember, of course, that you can find red snapper in your local market.

For the housewife who wants to provide a delicious main dish for tonight's dinner at a minimum of expense and labor the following is suggested:

BAKED SOLE EN CASSEOLE
1 pound fillet of sole
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 cup chopped shrimp or lobster, or both
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
Dash of paprika
2 cups milk
1/2 cup cooked or canned mushrooms, if desired

Wipe the fish with a damp cloth and place on a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with grated lemon peel. Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, milk and seasoning, and add lobster, shrimp and mushrooms. Pour over the sole and bake in a moderate oven for twenty-five minutes. Garnish with parsley and serve very hot from dish in which it was baked.

BLACK AND WHITE KNITTED TWEED DAYTIME DRESS

There Are Others Like Him!

Call Her Ways Were Black and White

By Ann Roberts

creeps back with relief to the good old stand-by—black and white. It is fresher looking than anything else, and it is more restful. You get everlastingly tired of all these pinks and blues and things unless they are done in the most precious and unusual ways.

Black and white is always precious. Let's study a complete costume and its variations—one that you could walk right out in and feel well. The chances are that you would feel so ultra that all the other good clothes would spend their future lives hanging in the closet instead of seeing the world.

For Traveling
FOR traveling to the mountains or to Canada, a black and white knitted tweed dress and suit. This is just as good as it can be in all the new checked, dotted, striped and plaided weaves. With this suit a white linen blouse or a white muslin one slightly ruffled.

A black silk suit has more capacity out all the promises I am making, for they can look more dowdy, too, than any other colors.

They are wearing colored jewelry and colored shoes with white evening dresses, but though it is very chic when beautifully done, I wouldn't advise attempting it unless the jewels were real and the shoes quite ultra—too many chances for mistakes.

Do your white evening dress in chiffon, white crepe or stiffened lace, and don't forget the white organdie, either all pure and unadorned or with a black tulle sash.

For sports—your white pique sleeveless dress with a narrow black patent leather belt and its little black coat of jersey or wool stuff. Wear a black rough straw sailor with this, or a white Panama, but keep your Panama for sports only—don't attempt it with a cape coat or afternoon dressing. It is not one of those accommodating appendages that "go with everything."

The white polo coat is supreme for sports and general outdoor protection. Shoes for the black and white ensemble—black and white spectator sports shoes for morning, or sports white buckskin tennis shoes, or white canvas ghillie type shoes. For afternoon white linen or buckskin pumps. For dress, white kid, white satin or crepe.

Jewelry helps out where it is right, ruins when it is wrong. For lace and white clothes pearls are just pleasing in one, two or three strands. Crystal is good, too, and carved white ivory has all the dash in the world when nicely handled. Long strings of green amber or jade are always chic with black and white. The jewelry, as I say, is in good taste, but all the young things are wearing barbaric jewelry this year and, what's no c, quantities of it. Any other season it would be considered bad form, but this year O. K.—it is being done.

About Becomingness
BECOMING? Well, if black isn't just your stuff, use plenty of white. Black and white works like a charm.

And for the evening, almost any one can wear black if there is enough skin showing, and white, too, has characteristics of almost universal becomingness. Mind you, both of them must be extremely well done to carry more impressions left behind of being well dressed than if you had chosen your colors over any other known scheme.

You and Your Child

Self-Confidence

SUSAN was helping mother set the table. As she was carrying in a glass of milk, a few drops spilled on the cloth. "You careless child," said mother. "Now you have to stop setting the table." Susan hung her head, and after this episode, she was rather diffident about doing things often saying, "I may spill it" or "It may break."

Little Eugene had a very different experience. He asked his mother if he could help her make the cake. She consented and asked him to bring her an egg. He dropped it on the floor. His mother asked him to clean up the mess and then said: "Now, bring me another one." "But I'll drop it," was the fearful reply. "Oh, no, you won't," Eugene's mother promptly answered. "This time you'll be very careful." And sure enough he was. Eugene continued to delight in helping and proved to his mother that her confidence in him was not misplaced.

Some children lose confidence in themselves very easily. A fact of life, such as "Alice isn't very good at reading," or "You haven't any voice" may rob a child of all faith in his ability. Adults must be very alert. Once the harm is done, it is not so easy to undo.

We should always hold out the hope to a youngster, then with practice and perseverance, he can improve. Perhaps we may have to give a child some advice or instruction to help him reach his goal. Let us beware that we compare him with some one else who is more adept or more talented. Every person has to progress at his own pace. One's only job should be to better one's own previous performance.

Nevertheless, it is disheartening for a youngster when, no matter how hard he tries, a sister or a brother outstrips him. In such a case, we have to point out to the child that each person excels at something, and that if he cannot run as fast as his brother, nevertheless he excels at singing or skating. The realization of his good points will make up to him for his unhappiness over his weak ones.

Self-confidence is a very precious asset. We should strive with all our might to help youngsters keep this valuable possession.

Oh, Go to Bed

By Eliot Kays Stone

"DAD, why do we have to sleep?" "Because we get tired." "Why do we get tired?" "Because we use up our energy." "How do we use up our energy?" "By working or playing." "What does the work want with the energy?" "Oh, go to bed."

Have You Ever Heard These?

Keep a package of the sanitary plastic spoons in the medicine cabinet. The spoon is a measuring device. Instead of a silver spoon which has to be sterilized, while the plastic one may be thrown away after each use, thus eliminating all labor, and then there is the danger of the silver spoon becoming discolored by the action of the drugs.

One woman has a tray upon which she keeps the salt and pepper shakers, ketchup and other sauces, sugar bowl and other small articles. When she sets the table she carries to try in which means only one trip to get all these things on the table, and she is free of carrying forgotten any of the small articles necessary at the meal.

BYRD—I couldn't see it. Grover Whalen's silk hat was in the way.

FRIEND—There's been a lot of changes since you left for the South Pole.

BYRD—I noticed it. What's the new language that's been introduced?

FRIEND—No, they're a blackface train who are putting a toothpaste over.

BYRD—What toothpaste?

FRIEND—I forget. But Amos and Andy are swell. Awah-awah-awah!

BYRD—What's this that people are saying for money?

FRIEND—I don't know what you mean.

BYRD—Well, look at this dollar bill.

FRIEND—What's the matter with it? You can spend it.

BYRD—I always thought our currency was larger.

FRIEND—You must to say this currency wasn't in circulation before you left a couple of years ago? I guess you're right, though—they only put it out last July, at that.

BYRD—Did they ever catch the man who shot Arnold Rothstein?

FRIEND—No, but they're still working on the case.

School nurse says all girls should know this
TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every drugstore has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

SYNOPSIS
While Disraeli and his wife look over a list of guests to be invited to a garden party at which he insists that a Mrs. Travers, known as Deford and Clarissa be present, Sir Michael Probert of the Bank of England calls to tell the Premier that the bank will not advance money to pay the Suez Canal.
Disraeli wants the canal as a route to India, to help build an empire and to thwart Russia's ambitions. He enlists young Deford as an ally and encourages Deford's suit for Clarissa's hand.

THIRD INSTALLMENT
Disraeli turned and faced Mrs. Travers, who began to walk toward them quickly. "Ah, an unexpected pleasure!" he said. "Deford and I were in the thick of a very interesting horticultural discussion. Some people say loam—and some advocate fertilizer—but I say sand."
That evening Mr. Disraeli made the very interesting announcement that Lord Deford had done him the honor of accepting a secretaryship from him.
Disraeli had in his employ a Mr. Foljambe whose eyes and ears of his chair as a rebuff to Foljambe and left the room. Foljambe was clever enough to understand the significance of Deford's silence.

Disraeli is Pleasantly Concerned in Mrs. Travers

Later Mrs. Travers came to call on the Disraelis, and Clarissa too arrived to see how Charles was getting on with his new work. When Clarissa and Charles went into the garden together, Mrs. Travers was able to read the note that Foljambe had surreptitiously slipped into her hand. She sat down at the writing table and bent a tattoo on the table with a paper knife. Suddenly Foljambe appeared with some papers in his hand.

"Aaah—I!"
"Sh—Meyers?"
"Yes."
"About the canal?"
"Yes."
"How do you know?" Foljambe asked.
"I saw them coming out of the office. Both radiant."
"When—what?"
"Start now. Instructions at Trieste by way of Ostend."
"Ostend?"
Disraeli opened the door and joined his guest.
"All alone, Mrs. Travers?"
Foljambe slammed the door at which he was standing, as though he had just entered.
"Here are the papers giving the figures you asked for, sir," he said obsequiously.
"Thank you, Mr. Foljambe!"
"And how is your poor husband?" Disraeli asked with concern of the lady visitor.
"No better, I fear. Still abroad. Will you kindly make my excuses to the young people?" she finished, rising.

"You are not going?"
"I promised to help dear Lady Probert. She is organizing a bazaar."
"Ah, always occupied with good works. Always with your hand in some great undertaking in secret, too," he added significantly.
When she had gone Mr. Disraeli sat down at the desk where Mrs. Travers had sat, murmuring to himself—"Ostend—Ostend." He picked up the paper "knife" and tapped it on the desk. Foljambe opened the door.
"Oh—I—I—beg your pardon, sir," he apologized confusedly. "I thought you called."

Disraeli was not long in coming to a conclusion, and in making his decision he was aided by the fact that Charles, who had just come in from the garden with Clarissa. He wanted to know if Mr. Foljambe had made any comment on Meyers' visit.

"He—ah—yes, certainly, but I snubbed him," Charles stated. "I really had the impertinence to say you were some Meyers' about"—he looked at Charles—"Shall I speak before Lady Devensey?"
"Yes, yes."
"About the Suez Canal?"
"And what did you say?"
"I merely stood up and looked at him."
Disraeli threw up his hands in horror.

"What more could you have told him if you had talked an hour?"
"Oh, well," Charles assured him. "he is easily muzzled. I shall call him."

BRITISH PUT APPLE BAN IN EFFECT

SACRAMENTO, June 28.—UP—Announcement that federal certification will be required by the British government for all apples imported by England and Wales between July 7 and November 15 each year was made today by Director G. H. Hecke of the California Department of Agriculture.

Hecke, who has been in contact with federal officials said that this order is intended to prevent introduction of the apple fruit fly which was intercepted in some shipments of apples from New England last year. The restriction, however, will occasion little, if any difficulty in California, since the federal-state export form certificate which has been used for years on all European export shipment of California apples to England will fully meet these requirements.

The British ministry of agriculture, according to work from P. A. Motz, European representative of the federal bureau of agricultural economics, issued the prohibitory order to apply on any raw apples in the United States unless accompanied by federal certification, stating in the case of boxed apples that they are of extra fancy or fancy grade, and in the case of barreled apples that they are of U. S. fancy or U. S. No. 1 grade.

Under this ruling, it will not be possible to export to England any "C" grade apples during the period covered by the order. In the past, however, little of this low grade fruit has moved to Europe. Barreled apples, exported from eastern states, according to information reaching Hecke, have for the most part been below U. S. grade No. 1, the lowest grade which will be permitted importation by England this year. The new order necessarily will hold back movement of York Imperials, since U. S. No. 1 grade requires mature fruit. Much more care than formerly will be required in the east to meet standards imposed by British authorities, and this, according to Hecke, should assist the United States in maintaining satisfactory market conditions in Great Britain. In spite of numerous rumors, no official advice has been received of British restrictions on any other fruit.

Grain Test Plots In County Harvested

The harvesting of grain variety test plots in Contra Costa county was completed last week according to Farm Advisor Ray Goble. Plots containing five varieties of wheat and five of barley were planted on the ranches of W. W. Hoffman, Byron; Fred Heidorn, Antioch; C. A. Hooper company, Pittsburg; Geo. Kennerley, Concord and Wood and Co. Danville, last spring in an effort to ascertain whether or not there are varieties better suited to Contra Costa county conditions than the ones now being grown commercially.

Five 16 foot rows of each variety were harvested in each plot, the heads being placed in sacks for safe shipment to the Agronomy division at Davis, where they will be threshed out, yield data in bushels per acre compiled and the results returned to the Farm Advisor's office. Later on grain growers of the county will be advised as to the results.

Unooled Springs Cause Hard Riding

Continued riding upon unooled or ungreased springs results in grooves being worn at the point where the leaves overlap, states L. C. Evans, general service manager of the National Automobile club. Such a condition greatly hinders the riding comfort of the car and may only be overcome by removing the leaves and grinding the surface.

Moaners Hit By Campbell In Last Talk

BERKELEY, June 28.—UP—Retiring from the presidency of the largest university west of New York after 38 years of service, Dr. W. W. Campbell of the University of California took the time today to throw a few gloves in the face of the Anti-Everything societies, the Carnegie Foundation surveyors and the Association for Moaning and Groaning About the Good Old Days.

Excerpts from his observations:

1. College students of today are more serious of purpose and need less discipline than at any time during the past ten years.

2. Advancing standards in business are resulting from the spread of college training.

3. College athletics in general are an essential part of student life. The growing tendency is for greater facilities to provide competitive sports for the many instead of the comparative few who participated and watched them 10 years ago.

4. The World War left a deep brand on its generation in college. Gradually, however, students are emerging.

ROTARIANS END CONCLAVE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 28.—UP—Inspirational messages, pointing the way to world peace, were started around the globe today by home-returning Rotarians whose silver jubilee convention ended yesterday.

As the final plenary session came to a close, Almon E. Roth, business manager of Stanford University, of Palo Alto, Calif., was announced as the new president of Rotary International. He was elected in Thursday's balloting by a vote of 2216, defeating Raymond J. Knoepfel, New York 1119. On Knoepfel's motion, Roth was declared unanimously named for the office.

United States delegates elected as their five representatives on the board of directors, Clinton P. Anderson, Albuquerque, N. M.; Claybrook Crottingham, Pineville, La.; Richard G. Hecke, Detroit; Howard W. Selby, West Palm Beach, Fla.; and Will Taylor, of Springfield, Ill.

Other Directors.

Directors chosen for other countries were Arthur Chadwick, London; Dr. Luis A. Chavez, Lima, Peru; William De Cock Buning, The Hague, Netherlands; and Smith L. P. Free, Masterston, New Zealand.

Admiral Mark Kerr of London addressed the concluding session on "The Independence of Nations" and urged the United States to assume responsibility for international peace through warning against war to all the nations.

He praised the Monroe doctrine for the part it had played in maintaining peace in the western hemisphere and suggested that it be used for a model in issuing the warning.

The United States as "arbiter of the world with regard to peace" should declare that any nation engaging in war without first seeking arbitration of its disputes, should be condemned by this country as doing an act as "dangerous to our peace and safety and a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States" he said.

Discuss Goodwill

Representatives of nations in continental Europe, the near east, far east, the antipodes and Latin America afterwards discussed the ways in which Rotary was helping various parts of the world to achieve international good will and understanding.

Rotary International's next convention will be held at Vienna, Austria. A strong bid for the 1932 sessions was made in behalf of Havana, by Louis Machado, president of the Rotary club of that city.

As final token of appreciation of the work of M. Eugene Newsom Durham, N. C., outgoing president, the delegates presented him with a check for building a seashore home for his family.

model, will have to remain aloft at least another hour to win the endurance title.

The strain of 17 days of continuous flying was beginning to tell on the pilots and their plane. During the day Kenneth dropped a note saying he had developed a toothache. Even his penmanship, bold and steady in the early days of the flight had become erratic.

After each refueling the plane listed and was obviously difficult to handle as all the gasoline had to be drained into one side due to a leak in the other storage tank. The motor, however, seemed to be working perfectly, save for an occasional uneven beat.

To Repair Leak

This morning the refueling plane dropped materials into the cockpit of the City of Chicago for the pilots to use in an attempt to repair the leaking tank. Although the leak allowed gasoline to escape no faster than a gallon an hour, the fumes from the escaping gas were so disagreeable that all of the fuel in the one tank was dumped.

After days of marking the progress of the flight by the calendar, the Hunters were watching intently tonight the minute hand of the clock as it ticked away the few hours that must be endured before the "ship comes in" bringing them aviation fame and fortune. They expect to make $200,000 endorsing materials they have used in breaking the record.

Many Present

Hundreds of automobiles on the highways leading to the airport as spectators from north shore suburbs and Chicago pressed near the field.

Although the motor seemed to falter at times in its monotonous droning, the two brothers on the ground, Albert and Walter, listened closely and pronounced it good for a "double dose" of the test it has been put to during the last 18 days.

Inside the yard-wide, 54 inch high cabin of the orange and black monoplane, Kenneth and John fought off a deadly drowsiness that was more feared by them because of their exhaustion from the long strain than the possibility that their motor might fail.

Roll Call

The roll call on the Walsh-Connally bill showed one Republican and seven Democrats favoring the measure including: LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, and Democratic Senators Simmons, North Carolina; Harrison, Mississippi; George, Georgia; Walsh, Massachusetts; Barkley, Kentucky; Thomas, Oklahoma, and Connally, Texas.

The 11 opponents of the measure included one Democrat, King, of Utah, and the following Republicans: Watson, Indiana; Reed, Pennsylvania; Shortridge, California; Couzens, Michigan; Greene, Vermont; Deneen, Illinois; Keyes, New Hampshire; Bingham, Connecticut; Thomas, Idaho; and Smoot, Utah, who was absent but whose vote was cast by Republican Leader Watson.

Connally and Walsh pleaded with the committee that a veteran who contracted a social disease in the service should not be barred from disability pension (renumerations because the government took responsibility for him when it drafted him from his home.

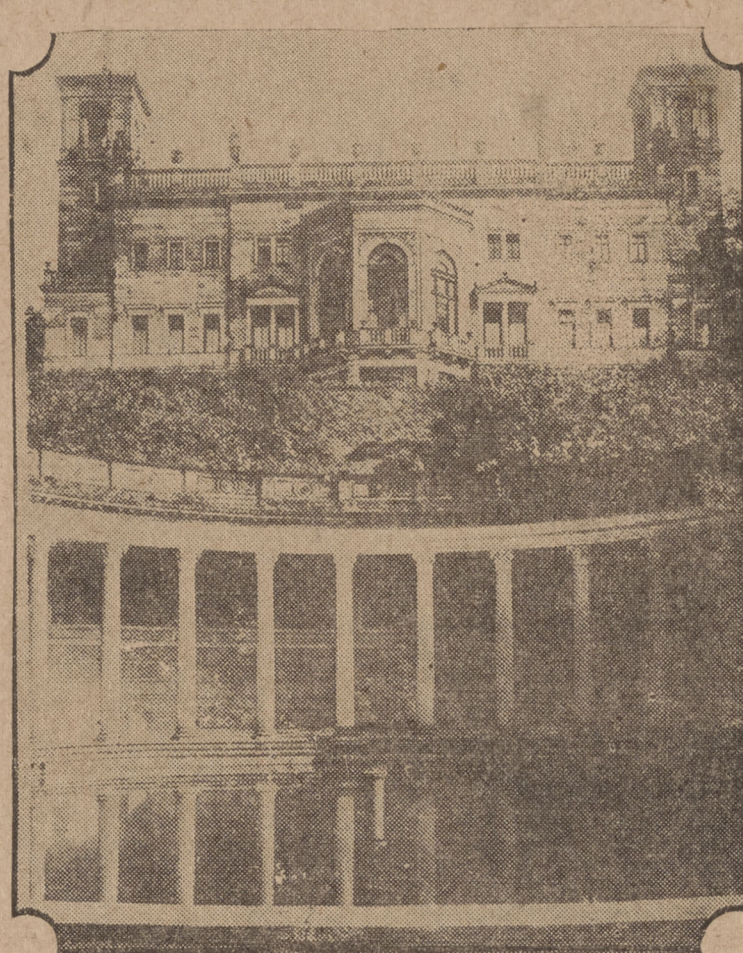

Two Republicans and seven Democrats favored adoption of this clause including Couzens, LaFollette, Harrison, George Walsh, Barkley, Thomas (Oklahoma), Connally and Simmons. These opposing included one Democrat and eight Republicans: Watson, Reed, Shortridge, Greene, Deneen, Bingham, Thomas (Idaho), King and Smoot.

Experiment On Condemned Man Hit By Lawyer

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 28.—UP—Attorneys for Woo Dak San, condemned slayer, today announced their opposition to inoculating him with trachoma germs in return for commutation of his death sentence to life imprisonment.

In the first statement issued by his counsel since medical research authorities advanced the novel proposal early this week, the defenders of the Chinese outlined their position.

"I would as soon see Woo Dak San die in the electric chair as to grope blindly about prison walls for the rest of his life," W. T. Gillenwater of Santa Fe, said in the statement. He said Alvin White of Silver City, associate counsel, concurred in his opinion.

Decision to oppose the inoculation, Gillenwater said, was based on three factors, as follows:

"1. We have no assurance that the experiment would benefit medical science.

"2. We have no assurance that Woo Dak San would be made blind by the experiment.

"3. Under the circumstances, Woo's consent could hardly be voluntary. He practically is being bribed with the offer of his life."

Medical authorities said the experiment of inoculating the Chinese would be of valuable assistance in their effort to free the Indians from the dreaded scourge. They also said they could give no definite guarantee that they could hold the disease in check to prevent Woo from going blind.

SHERIFF SAVES NEGRO FROM RIOTERS

DALLAS, Tex., June 28.—UP—Texas officers saved one negro assailant and possemen killed another in two incidents of racial disturbances today.

Tear bombs and the effective leadership of Sheriff Walter Covington at Beaumont routed a crowd of laborers bent on lynching Rainey Williams, negro, charged with attack, after he had been spirited away from them at Port Arthur nearby.

Jack Robertson, who shot and blinded his employer, R. L. Egger, a dairyman, and wounded Mrs. Egger at Round Rock, Tex., was killed by a posse during an exchange of gun fire, when, according to possemen, the negro resisted arrest. Egger and his wife were dangerously wounded.

Mob Halted

A night of mob movements against the negro, Williams, at Port Arthur and Beaumont ended early today when Sheriff Covington, himself seized as a hostage by the mob, made an appeal for justice.

"I talked them out of it," Covington said. He read to the mob a copy of the negro's confession in which Williams admitted beating eight couples in attacks at Port Arthur but denied he had harmed the women otherwise.

The sheriff promised speedy justice. He also said machine guns and a full quota of armed guards would resist any attempts to seize the prisoner.

Negro Removed

The mob action began late yesterday at Port Arthur when rioters seized the negro as he was taken from the jail there to be removed to Beaumont.

Officers re-took the prisoner and started their journey, followed by some 400 Port Arthur laborers traveling in automobiles.

Sheriff Covington started the action there when he seized and destroyed an acetylene torch carried by a rioter. The mob in turn seized the sheriff. He fired one shot into the ground and his deputies hurried tear bombs to halt roughness. He then addressed the mob and its members departed.
